

Home Grooming

Detaching and De-personalizing

- Your clients must adopt a buyer's perspective early on by letting go and looking toward the future.
- The Gurus help your clients pack away their treasured photos and mementos, making it easier to move forward.
- We clean out closets, pack away books, and arrange for storage-facility rental and charity pickups—whatever it takes to achieve a home attractive to home seekers.

De-cluttering and Decorating

- You know your client's home will be most memorable when it's bright, clean, and charming.
- The Gurus work with the seller to de-clutter and organize each room and closet.
- We manage repair people, painters, landscapers—whatever it takes to welcome the potential buyer.

Designing and Dressing

- Grooming a home is also about illusions.
- The Gurus design a mood or ambiance—inside and out.
- Dressing up a house for sale is about adding small, subtle details—lipstick, mascara, and a stunning strand of pearls. The Gurus are happy to include those final touches, when needed.

The good things about grooming a home for sale...

- Compels your sellers to clean, organize, and de-clutter early on.
- *Prepares the home for a quick sale by way of clearing away shelves, closets, and cabinets—a Gurus specialty.*
- Provides your client with a head start on packing for the move.
- Reduces the home's market time and increases the likelihood of a sale by quickly attracting the perfect buyer.
- Helps justify the asking price.
 - *If you're dealing with a seller's market, and the home is priced correctly, there's less haggling over the asking price.*
 - *In a market leaning toward the buyer, you and your clients need everything in your favor to validate the asking price. Proper grooming of the home positions it more favorably in the buyer's mind.*
- *Makes the process of letting go fun, and many people find they enjoy it once they've begun. This is especially true when they have the Gurus creating ideas and contributing to the elbow grease.*

The benefits to you and your clients are clear. The house sells in less time and for more money!

The Gurus offer many valuable home-grooming services ...

We work to highlight a home's strengths, downplay its problems, and make it appealing to the greatest possible pool of buyers. We scrutinize the house and surrounding areas from all angles.

- “How is its curb appeal?”
- “Is it welcoming?”
- “Does it have an emotional pull, impact, and pizzazz?”
- “Are rooms open and airy?”

The Gurus provide your clients with ideas for enhancing a home's strengths while offering solutions to minimize its challenges. This might involve just a little closet thinning and tidying up or a major furniture and design overhaul. Regardless, when we're done, the home stands out in a crowd.
